Company Summary

Inside-Out Learning has successfully delivered over 3000 global transformational programs over the past 25+ years. Inside-Out Learning's (IOL) founder and CEO, Dr. Sharon Lamm-Hartman, is the recipient of the prestigious Center for Creative Leadership Walter Ulmer Award for her work in transformative learning. We understand that all transformation begins from the inside-out with authenticity. IOL's team of 40+ consultants create lasting change by building Intensity, Frequency, and Duration into everything we do and have been featured in The New York Times, Forbes, and Oprah's, 'O' magazine.

Some of Our Programs Include:

Organizational Needs Assessment

We design both quantitative and qualitative assessments to measure gaps between current state and desired future state of culture. These assessments identify improvement opportunities, and we make recommendations on how to move toward achieving the desired future state.

Our assessments can also:

- Identify what the organization can do to achieve strategy, goals and objectives.
- Help establish values and desired cultural behaviors/norms.

"You saved a program that is integral to our national security!"

"Best coach I have ever worked with."

"I got promoted into my ideal job because of this coaching."

Leadership Team Offsites

Through a needs assessment we determine priorities that your team needs to focus on. Focus areas could include vision, strategy, role clarity, team building, conflict resolution, decision making or problem solving. We then custom design an off-site around your team's prioritized focus areas. We have proven tools and techniques to help your team learn from your past and transform into your desired future.

"One of the best offsites for organizational leadership."
